

Stanhope IPC Limited (SIPC) is a Hong Kong-based commercial and business consultancy specializing in serving the upstream developments of the Energy industry, with focus on Oil/Gas, Power and Infrastructure.

Strong capability exists in project delivery and delivering logistics solutions for these developments.

SIPC was established in 2006 from the combination of the capabilities of Stanhope Group and International Project Consultants (since 1992) in Australia. It has formed associations with key engineering and architectural consultancies, major industry operators, associations and financial institutions, to bring together a unique project development capability in the Energy sector in the fastest economic growth region of Asia.
